

Trusts and Foundations

The support we receive from trusts, foundations and statutory organisations is instrumental in ensuring our ability to carry out immediate and long-term programmes and projects and offers us the security needed to cover core and administrative costs.

Richard House has been consistent in its standard of care; is forging more meaningful relationships with neighbouring health organisations; has exciting plans to improve and expand services; and has become better at monitoring and evaluating all this information. As such, 2008 proves to be an innovative year where new ideas come to fruition.

Naturally, the respite and specialist care offered by our qualified nurses and play and care workers remains at the heart of what we do. Securing such funding remains crucial to the service we offer and we are ever grateful for such assistance.

To all the trusts and foundations that already support us – we remain extremely grateful for your loyal support.
